Eager to erase the memory of Flapjack Flats and Muldoon's leaky lodgings from their minds, the Simpleton family decided to spend the second day of their vacation enjoying themselves.

With nothing special in mind and no schedules to make, they chugged over to that inland paradise a few miles from Flapjack called Lake Lukewarm.

It was a real paradise alright, with older and fatter angels sunning themselves on the beach and plenty of little cherubs throwing sand at each other and stepping on your face as soon as you closed your eyes. Oh yes, there were a few non-conforming angels in white coats who kept hovering, "Hot dogs and ice-cold drinks, right here."

The Simpletons changed into appropriate lakewear and settled down in the solitude of the only two square feet of beach left uninhabited. Before long, the children, Cornelius and Magnolia, began to show signs of restlessness.

The association hopes to raise about $700.

The Glory Fireworks company has promised to set off a $1500 display if the drive nets at least $500.

Any deficit will be absorbed by the fireworks company as part of its contribution to the bi-centennial celebration. Edward J. Sweeney, chairman of the Memorial park association announced.

Sixty dollars was stolen from the home of Thomas Carter, 305 East Vine street, Stowe, yesterday morning.

Carter discovered the theft at 12:30 p.m. after returning home from work at Stanley G. Flagg and company, incorporated, where employees were dismissed in the afternoon because of the heat.

After finding the back kitchen door open, Carter noticed dirty finger-prints on the wallpaper at the foot of the stairway. He went upstairs and discovered that a bag containing $57 collected from members of the Second Baptist church Sunday school and choir were missing.

Carter is superintendent of the George A. Hunsberger, 266 Walnut street, treasurer of Pottstown church Sunday school and president of the Federation of Men's Bible Classes.

THE MONEY had been kept in the top drawer of a dresser in the second floor front bedroom. Funds have been collected weekly, but Carter's policy has been to deposit the funds in a bank on a Pottstown housewives no longer are concerned about which came first, the chicken or the egg.

They know, and are happy in the knowledge, that the chicken is plentiful and, compared with most meats these days, are lower priced—especially over the weekends.

According to a High street supermarket's meat manager, "Chickens are very cheap. They are plentiful and moving well because they are reasonably priced in comparison with other meats."

Asked why it is that there pretty much in line with what they seemingly are more chickens were three years ago, on the market now than ever before, he replied:

Fire that broke out yesterday Lindauer, who made the damage afternoon in a third-floor hallway estimate, said the blaze started in an apartment building at High and Washington streets caused an estimated $300 damage to the hallway. A carelessly-dropped cigarette probably ignited the trash, he reported.

THE DAMAGED apartment was that of Mrs. Mary Colli, who is moving from Birdsboro RD 2. She was at the latter home when the fire broke out.

In addition to extensive smoke damage, the apartment had a small hole eaten in the wall between the apartment and the hallway.

Mercury Reaches 95,
More in Store Today

Mother nature blended a blistering 95 degree temperature and humidity ranging from 72 percent early in the morning down to 48 percent at 3 p.m. yesterday to give the Pottstown area one of the hottest days its experienced this year.

The old girl didn't expend all her energy in whipping up yesterday's bit of Summer weather hash, however. Reading Weatherman Matthew Peacock forecast last night that "this will last at least another day or two. Today, he said, will be fair with a high of 95 to 98 degrees.

The high mercury reading of 95 was only one degree below the mark of the past June 17 that equalled a record set in 1939.

Yesterday's high was four degrees below the 99 degree record for the day set in 1943.

Though the temperature was lower yesterday, the humidity at one point was 20 percent higher than the 50 percent registered June 17, a day so unbearable in many foundry and casting shops of borough plants that hundreds of workers were permitted to leave work early.

Only two firms were known last night to have sent employees home early. They were the Stanley G. Flagg Manufacturing company and the Doehler-Jarvis Die Casting corporation. The latter dismissed only men in its casting department.

Nobody could say whether it has been luck or just stamina native to the Pottstown area, but fortunately only one person has been a victim of the heat since the heating began hitting the area less than three weeks ago.

Some residents both of New York and Philadelphia, which experienced record temperatures (96 degrees each) yesterday, were taken to hospitals as victims of heat prostration.

A car driven by a Pottstown woman struck the rear of another automobile on Route 83 at the intersection of Wells Feed Store road, Thursday at about 5:30 p.m.

Earl F. Bailey, 33, of 5 West Third street, was on Route 83, going toward Spring City. He had passed two cars when he thought the one in front of him was going to make a left hand turn.

He applied his brakes but could not avoid hitting a car operated by John Jalle, 69, of Roversford.

Jalle had stopped at the intersection and was to the right side of the road when Bailey's car hit the left rear.

Pauli State police estimated damage to Bailey's automobile amounted to $150 and damage to Jalle's car was about $75.

Pottstown Portraits

A Quick Look at Your Neighbor

By LARRY DAVIS

DR. DANIEL LEE, 34-year-old Pottstown physician, made the grade to professional status as the result of two factors:

He listened to his father's constant admonitions to strive for the better things in life, and he had the will to work and study hard.

"Otherwise," he reports with a genuine smile that only confidence can inspire, "I might still be working in a restaurant kitchen somewhere."

Dr. Daniel Lee

Known as "Bud" to his childhood acquaintances, Dr. Lee was born in North Philadelphia, the younger of two children of a contractor's labore who never went beyond the fourth grade. His mother died three months after his birth. So his father was left with the job of raising his small family.

"Bud's" high school classmates noted he "possesses a good mind and uses it to his best advantage in his scholastic work." So says his 1935 class yearbook.

During his high school days, his father repeatedly drove home the idea of his studying medicine. Following his graduation his dad handed him $180 as a nest egg for a college education.

"It was a lot of money to my father," Dr. Lee says, "but it didn't go far in college."

But he matriculated at Lincoln university, majoring in biology and chemistry, and remembering his father's advice. When the $180 vanished, he took up any after-class job he could find to keep going. Between his junior and senior years, he left school, went to work at anything he could find.

"I couldn't be choosy when I had to make a dime," he says.

When Dr. Lee was graduated from Lincoln he had only one suit and one pair of shoes to his name. Nothing else. He worked for a year in the kitchen of a Philadelphia chain restaurant and for two years at the Frankford arsenal where he went from sweeper to machine operator's helper.

All the while, he was putting away money. In 1942 he entered Howard University School of Medicine, and upon graduation—in spite of his odd job career to keep himself in class—found himself with a diploma and ten cents.

Meanwhile, he had married the former Thelma M. Ragin.

To look at his 210 pounds today, it is difficult to realize that he boxed in college as a 125-pound featherweight, as a lightweight, welterweight and middleweight, gaining the campus championship from freshman to senior in each class. In 40 fights, he won 38, "strictly as an amateur."

When he left medical school, Dr. Lee interned for a year at Harlem hospital in New York. For two years after that he returned to Lincoln university as school physician and as assistant professor of hygiene. Then he began looking for a community in which he could build his own private practice.

On June 4, 1948, he moved with his family to Pottstown after surveying possibilities in Reading.

He likes bow ties—"because they're easy to put on"—has taken a fancy to tropical fish and miniature golf, and never misses a fight on television, a throwback, perhaps, to his college boxing days. When he can, he attends professional boxing matches in Philadelphia.

Aside from his professional interests, Dr. Lee is active community-wise, particularly as president of the Pottstown Civic league which he has headed for two years. He has a deep and abiding faith in youth education as the solution to many of the modern adult problems.

A member of the American Medical association, the Montgomery County Medical association, the Pennsylvania Medical, Dental and Pharmaceutical association and the Philadelphia Academy of Medicine and Allied Sciences, Dr. Lee enjoys courtesy privileges at both Pottstown and Memorial hospitals.

He and his wife, with their two sons, Donald Jr., six, and Kenneth, four, live at 719 Walnut street.

PEW Pottstown persons can claim that they have graduated from both West Pottsgrove and Pottstown High schools. But, G. Thomas Zellers, 515 North Charlotte street, can do just that. Moreover, he has the diplomas to prove it.

Now operating the century-old Merchants hotel, Tommy Zellers has had a checked career that includes a score of jobs from shoe clerk to electrical engineer.

He was born on July 1, 1909, "at the foot of Nanny Goat hill in Reading," the oldest of three children of Mrs. Miriam and the late Paul Ira Zellers, and got his early education in a series of one-room school houses that he attended from Reading to Kenilworth, to Douglassville and to Joanna, near Elverson.

"In Joanna," he recalls, "things were really tough. We lived in a log cabin for $6.50 a month, and many was the morning I woke up in the shingled loft with snow all over the place. I went to school in Morgantown then and bummed a ride with Old Dave Hartz's delivery truck. If I didn't meet him, I walked two miles."

In 1921, the family moved to Stowe, and having skipped second, third and seventh grades in hopping around the countryside, Tommy entered West Pottsgrove from which he was graduated in 1924.

"Then I got the wise idea I was too smart for any more school," he says, puffing on a cigar. "So I quit and learned the electrical trade with Stanley G. Flagg company."

In the meantime, he lost his father and when his mother went to work in the family support, he entered Pottstown High school from which he was graduated in 1929.

The depression was just beginning and the pinch was being felt everywhere. Tommy did his part by finding any odd job that suited his fancy. He wired houses, sold shoes, peddled clothing, jerked sodas, sold cars, hawked insurance and chauffeured.

"Anything to earn a buck," he says matter of factly.

He got a steady job with the late Raymond B. Miller as an electrician and helped wire the Reading station. When this petered out, he went to work in the drawing room of McClintic-Marshall.

"But, I couldn't stand the indoors, so I quit."

In 1931, he worked as an electrician for the Spicer Manufacturing company and remained, doing a solo 11-to-7 shift, until late 1933, when he met William Goldman, the theater tycoon, who offered him work as "doorman, usher, maintenance man and general handyman." At the same time he worked nights as a night club bartender and bus boy.

A stint as an electrician at the Doehler-Jarvis corporation from 1935 to 1937 followed; then a "tour" as maintenance engineer for a string of New England theaters until 1939 when he joined the Bethlehem Steel company as night electrical crew leader in Bethlehem for a year.

On Sept. 18, 1940, he joined the Bethlehem National guard unit and found himself federalized three days later. On time-in-service and age he was discharged after 14 months. He did a stint with the Army Engineers during which he helped wire the Reading airport until he re-enlisted on May 1943.

This tour carried him to England, France, Germany and Austria during the height of the war with the 237th Combat Engineers which laid an 1100-foot bridge over the Rhine river for the U. S. Seventh Division.

Following his discharge in October 1945—he was 36 then—he went into the electrical contracting business here and managed during the great strike dimum of Christmas 1946 to light Pottstown's holiday display with an oil-powered generator.

His success nearly caused his arrest by the FBI for alleged violation of the federal ban on coal-induced Christmas lighting. But the lights glowed.

On April 1, he took over the Merchant's hotel in partnership and has been sole operator of the hotel for the past year. He was married to his former Susan C. Sell on Christmas eve, 1947.

Church to Accept Applications for Camp Scholarships

Applications for scholarships to the Paradise Falls Summer camp of the Lutheran Ministry of Pennsylvania will be accepted at the church Sunday school within the next two weeks. Members of the Transfiguration Sunday school association were told Tuesday night.

The Rev. Theodore L. Fischer, pastor informed the 18 teachers and officers of the school present at the group's meeting in the church office, that the school's assistant superintendent, Vincent Myers, will collect the applications.

Superintendent Robert Scheffey announced the Lutheran leadership training school will be conducted at the Transfiguration church beginning the first week in October. All Sunday school teachers and laymen of Lutheran churches in the Pottstown area will be invited to attend the school.

Scheffey also announced various type Bibles, including those in foreign languages, will be displayed in the main department of the Sunday school during September.

DURING OCTOBER, he added, the Sunday school will promote family worship in the homes of

The burglars were stymied by a bolt on the back door. Weyand said, and probably entered through a side window, although it was evident they might have gotten in through the front door with a pass key.

There was no attempt to force the safe, and the thieves did not ransack drawers. The cash register had been empty and open. The burglars made a vain attempt to get out through a barred cellar window.

THE BURGLARY was discovered at 8:30 o'clock by Harold Romeike, Pennsburg, a son-in-law of the manager. The store had closed, at 6 p. m.

Weyand notified Jeffersonville State police, and Trooper Chester Kupriewski investigated.

More than 4000 rounds of .22-caliber ammunition were stolen, as well as several thousand rounds of higher-powered ammunition. The manager said the ammunition alone was worth about $150.

The weapons stolen were two Harrington and Richardson .22-caliber revolvers; a .30-caliber Remington and four .22-caliber rifles, including two high-priced models.

Miscellaneous equipment included three electric shavers, an electric fan, electric iron, two table model radios, pipe wrenches, crescent wrenches, screw drivers, hunting knives and fishing tackle.

House Votes to Ask Truman To Use T-H Law in Strike

President Stays Silent on Issue

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—The House voted to go along with the Senate today in asking President Truman to use the Taft-Hartley law to halt the steel strike.

The President was silent, however, on whether he will heed the Congressional request. Under T-H, Truman could apply for an 80-day court ban against continuing the shutdown of the nation's most basic industry.

The 24-day strike was cutting deeper into the nation's economy, including defense production. Besides the 650,000 striking CIO Steelworkers, nearly 125,000 other workers were idle in industries depending on steel. The number was growing fast, with heavy layoffs starting in the auto industry.

Most Republicans and almost all southern Democrats joined in voting 190 to 133 to request that Truman bring the T-H emergency strike machinery into play. The voting was preceded by angry debate, administration Democrats and some Republicans from industrial areas voted against it. The Senate had previously voted the same request, 49 to 30.

THE SENATE had acted on June 10—the same day that the President had personally addressed a joint session of Congress on the steel situation. Truman said Congress could choose either of two courses—authorizing seizure of the industry or the "Taft-Hartley approach."

Truman said he favored seizure but couldn't seize without sanction from Congress since the Supreme court had ruled his two-month-long seizure without a law was unconstitutional. Congress rejected several proposals to give him seizure power in steel.

Truman, although asking Congress to choose between seizure and the T-H law, never said he would follow the advice.

Delegation Favors Ike, AP Poll Shows

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (AP)—A new Associated Press poll of Pennsylvania's highly important 70-vote delegation to the Republican National convention showed today Anti-American banners were first few moments. An undetermined number of other officers either back Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or remain in their quarters during the convention.

Favorable to Eisenhower—32. Favorable to Taft—24.

Undecided or unwilling to state any preference—14.

Japanese Police Break up Fighter-Bombers Hit Red Riots in Tokyo, Osaka

TOKYO, Thursday, June 26 (AP)—Japanese police smashed Communist riots in Tokyo and at Osaka in a violent climax Wednesday to Red demonstrations against the Korean war.

Police used tear gas and clubs against Reds who hurled acid and fire bombs.

More than 60 police and 50 demonstrators were hurt.

Also injured were U. S. Brig. Gen. Carter W. Clarke—burned slightly by acid at Osaka—two American military policemen and three Japanese newspapermen.

Nearly 150 Reds were jailed.

THE RIOTS grew out of pro-Communist meetings by 400,000 Koreans throughout Japan on the second anniversary of the Korean separated from the fighting.

Thirty police were hurt in the beginning. A Communist mob near there commandeered a four-car passenger train and roared into suburban Suita. Police there were ready for them, too.

General Clarke, commander of a U. S. logistical unit in southern Japan, was splattered by sulphuric acid hurled into his automobile by the mob. He continued to his office.

LOS ANGELES, June 25 (AP)—United Auto Workers Ching, director of the federal (CIO) leaders today called off strike plans for this week mediation service in Washington and agreed to Federal conciliation in Washington on contracts covering 25,000 jet-producing workers at North American Aircraft corporation's four plants.

Negotiations here ended after 28 hours of almost continuous bargaining. Despite a new company offer, both sides appeared no closer to a settlement.

Lodge Asserts Shift Will Mean Objection of Malik Ike Nomination Fails; UN to Consider Germ War Charges

DENVER, June 25 (AP)—Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.) declared today that an "important shift" in delegate sentiment in the past 48 hours was assured. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee on either the second or third ballot at the GOP convention in Chicago next month.

Lodge, who is Eisenhower's national campaign manager, refused to tell a news conference where this shift of sentiment had taken place. But he added that he came here for the purpose of giving Eisenhower details of this development.

He said the reason this came about was:

"First, the realization that Eisenhower was the one man the Republicans could elect in November; second, this is their last chance to go with a winner; and a realization by delegates that Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio cannot win the nomination on the first convention ballot."

Lodge flew here from Chicago to go into a huddle with Gen. Eisenhower and other top lieutenants in the general's presidential campaign.

THE SENATOR insisted that Eisenhower will have more than 500 votes on the first ballot at Chicago while Taft will have less than 400. He said the Taft forces

A six-day nation-wide strike of hospital, cemetery and social service workers ended today after workers received promises of increased pay already voted by Congress.

A total of 12,000 workers were involved in the dispute settled by mediation under Rafael Pacheco, Mayor of Santiago.

Champ Gets TKO
In 13th as Sugar
Runs Out of Gas

Sugar Score Early

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP) — Joey Maxim dramatically saved his world light heavyweight title bout after taking a early round beating when Sugar Ray Robinson was unable to come out for the 14th round of their title bout in the steaming 103-degree heat of Yankee Stadium.

Reeling to his corner in sheer exhaustion after the 13th, Robin son's bid for ring immortality as a triple champion ended on his stool in his own corner, a technical knockout victim. It was the first time in the brilliant 137 bout career of Robinson that the Harlem Sugar Dandy had been stopped.

The sugar sweatbox that was Yankee Stadium had already exacted its toll of Referee Ruby Goldstein in the first ten rounds of the struggle fought before a whopping shirt-sleeved crowd. Overcome by the heat, Goldstein had to give way to sub Referee Ray Miller in the 11th.

THE HEAT and the 13½ pounds he gave away to pal Joey from Cleveland suddenly caught up with Robinson in the 13th. The crowd was stunned when Sugar Ray, the sure footed dancing master of the first ten rounds, fell flat on his face in the 13th as he threw a wild haymaker right. The sight of Robinson on his face from a missed punch was an indication of his desperate plight.

AS THE 13th ended he collapsed wobbling against the ropes near a neutral corner and had to be dragged to his own stool.

Dr. Alexander Schiff, ringside physician, climbed into the ring and asked Robinson, "can you go on?"

The middleweight champ replied, "I can't get up on my feet all in."

Dr. Schiff then signalled Referee Miller it was all over on Robinson's own word.

Dr. Schiff said "Robinson suffered from heat exhaustion similar to that which effected referee Goldstein early in the fight."

House Votes to End Controls on July 31

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP) — A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats routed administration forces in the House today and voted tentatively to end all wage and price controls July 31.

The vote was 118 to 87.

When it became clear they had lost command of the voting, President Truman's lieutenants called off further consideration of the controls bill today.

They will rally their forces overnight and try tomorrow to get wage and price controls back into the measure with a final rollcall vote. There was no record made of how individual Congressmen voted in today's tentative action.

If the Administration loses tomorrow's showdown, all that will remain of the controls bill will be rent curbs, allocations for scarce materials and a request that the President use the Taft-Hartley act.

—America's strength at home—and the nation's moral leadership for previously had stripped the bill of all consumer credit controls. The past Friday the House voted provisionally to lift price controls from almost all consumer goods and abolish the Wage Stabilization board. These votes are also subject to final rollcall action.

Asked by newsmen if there were any more amendments to the bill pending, Representative Spence (D-Ky.), chairman of the banking committee, replied:

"I doubt it. You can't operate on a patient when he's dead."

Spence is the Administration's floor manager for the bill.

THE AMENDMENT to let price and wage controls die at the end of next month was sponsored by Representative Barden (D-N.C.), who demanded of the House:

"Do we not have faith in our own American way of life? Do we not have faith in our economic system?"

Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the banking committee, administration floor manager for the bill, replied. "The Democratic party is in favor of control of wages and control of prices."

"We cannot hope in a period of world uncertainty to do away with them," he said. Spence told supporters of the Barden amendment that the responsibility for leaving the country without economic controls would be theirs.

A few Republicans supported the Administration when the question came to a vote.

THE DEFENSE production act, with all its control powers, will expire at midnight Monday unless Congress acts to extend it.

Barden told the House he chose the July 31 date to allow a full month "to bundle up all their plans and petitions and allow them time to close up their office in an orderly way down there."

In turning thumbs down on controls today, the House ignored a last minute appeal by economic Administrator Roger L. Putnam.

HE SAID the country by country limitations are "insulting to a large number of our finest citizens, irritating to our allies abroad, and foreign to our purpose and ideals."

The President added that the overall limit of 134,658 immigrants a year is itself too small to "keep up with the growing needs of our nation for manpower to maintain the strength and vigor of our economy." He said that is especially true because the big quotas, for such countries as England and Ireland, never are filled and cannot be transferred to nations where there is a waiting list.

The bill, which was the center of one of the hottest recent fights in Congress, was sponsored jointly by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee, and Rep. Walter (D-Pa.).

'Sub-Deb' Charges Boys Are Sloppy DressersBoys Are Sloppy

To the Editor: I think the boys today have no taste at all. Just look at the way they are dressed!

Half of them wear pegged pants that make them look like they're walking on their knees. Their shoes are so thick that they look like Lil' Abner.

Then look at their hair. Either it's so long it looks like they could manage a pony tail, or else it's so short they look scalped.

When they walk they slouch all over the place, with their hands jammed into their pockets and their shoulders practically down to their elbows.

What a messy sight!

Why don't they take a hint from the girls? At least they look presentable all the time.

Pottstown SUB-DEB.

WASHINGTONIke and Taft Bosses*Get Votes Same Way

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, June 25—The Bob-and-Ike preconvention struggle for possibly crucial delegates has now reached the stage where each side hesitates to adopt slugging or whining tactics that might make the nomination worth no more than a Truman nickel.

The Taft forces are making a strategic retreat from the bulldozing position which provoked charges that they had re-cracked the old 1912 "steamroller" responsible for William Howard's selection over Theodore Roosevelt. The senator's offer to compromise in the two-delegation, Texas row reflects his concern over a convention debacle.

The Eisenhower high command, with a few exceptions, are worried lest a flood fight against Taft's domination of convention committees and presiding officials, including Keynoter MacArthur, may depict them as "cry babies" and "soreheads." They realize that they cannot afford to antagonize the GOP grayhounds who rule the organization and its vote-getting resources.

These new and unexpected developments can have great importance. Although the two factions will fight for their heroes to the last roll call, they are trying to keep in mind that the major battle must be won or lost in November, not at Chicago next month. □

IT SEEMS to me that if baseball is the Great American Pastime and one of the things our boys in Korea are fighting for, along with chocolate ice cream sodas and mom's deep dish apple pie, the Great American and larger citadel and helping people of poor means.

But we must remember that they are needed elsewhere, and have answered the call. I know they will do as well in York.

It will take a lot of time before the new officer can even fill a small gap in the hearts of Pottstownians, but I'm sure it is the sincere wish of Capt. and Mrs. Cox that we welcome them with open arms.

Pottstown ONE WHO HAS HELPED

Wants Reassessment

To the Editor: You can call me crazy, but I'm all for reassessment, even though I know I'll be hit considerably harder in the pocketbook.

I purchased my home in 1927 and on present rates of assessment I know I'm getting off pretty cheap. My family is grown and I don't have the expenses I had some years ago.

Yet in recent years young men with doctor bills and the many other expenses of a growing family have been paying a larger proportion of the tax load than I have.

It isn't fair, and I'll be glad to see things change. The sooner we get reassessment the better.

Pottstown FAIR MINDED

Must Trust One Another

To the Editor: It seems to me Analyzing ("Don't Judge by Looking," Readers Say, June 23) really missed the boat regarding the church robbery. I happen to know the persons involved and know they were poorly judged by Analyzing.

What a fine example these teachers of Bible school would set for their pupils if they went around suspecting everyone!

Where but in Bible school should we feel we can trust our fellow men anymore?

Isn't that why we send our children to learn to have faith and trust in others?

As for a person's skin, clothing, etc., there wasn't a reference made at all to these things.

It was the person's face that was mentioned and not his features.

These girls simply meant he had a kind face and not a handsome one.

They were practicing their own teachings, and not judging by appearance, but by that quality we all hope to have. A kind honest face, one that seems to show a kind honest heart, inside.

I for one would rather send my children to Bible school taught by these girls, than if it were taught by Analyzing. What a far better world we would have if we all trusted a little more, and suspected a little less.

★ NEW STAR—James Gibbons, 12 South Hanover street, is opening a new restaurant, The Star, on Tuesday on the first floor of 12 South Hanover street, which is being vacated by the plumbing firm of Knod and Moffitt. Gibbons' business experience has included operating a diner in the East End. Manager of his new enterprise will be Ada Lille, former cook at the Elks home. The plumbing firm is moving to 888 High street, because the Hanover street location was unhandy for trucks that had to move long pipes. Incidentally, a member of the Knod family, Mrs. Lurena Brendlinger, once operated the American restaurant at 8 South Hanover street, next door to the new enterprise. "The Star" is a well known restaurant name locally. Swif's Star was a mecca of seafood and home-cooked meal lovers for several decades. It was at 133 High street, was well patronized by farmers who wanted fried oysters, or oyster stew when they came into town. They didn't get seafood on the farm!

HEAT WAVE—It's back again. While we melted away beside the molten lead-pots in the composing and press rooms yesterday, all we could think about was that bath at the end of the day. Good day to talk about it. Your great-grandmother and grandfather didn't talk about the bathroom out loud. Although the idea of a separate room in the house set aside for bathing was 5000 years old, the bathroom has had respectability for only 100 years. Babylonians had bathrooms back as far as 3000 BC, but the Romans were the gents who really made a big thing about enameled and they had fine bathrooms, too. . . .

★ EVER KNOW that the word plumber comes from the old Roman word plumbum, which meant lead? All Roman pipes were made of lead. Must have been interesting to live in the days when the Roman empire was at its height. Most bathing was done in public baths and a lot of it right out in the open. The Roman plumbers were an ingenious lot. They rigged up heating pipes to the baths and you had a choice of hot, warm or cold water. They hadn't devised the mixing faucet, however. The wealthier Romans had individual tubs, though, usually hewn out of stone. . . .

* * *

THE DARK AGES that followed were described by Voltaire as "a thousand years without a bath." Marie Antoinette and Napoleon bathed in tubs. Jean Paul Marat, lone wolf of the French revolution, was assassinated while in his "slipper" bathtub by Charlotte Corday, a Norman girl. Incidentally, it was this type of shoe tub that was brought to the United States by Benjamin Franklin. Early colonists scoffed at it, called it a "sybaritic affection of decadent Europe, a corrupter of virile young America." Despite this disdain, wily Ben continued bathing twice a week in his hammered copper tub. His longevity could be proof that tub bathing kept him healthy. . . .

PLUMBERS HAVE long hoped for a better name for the bathroom. That the public is still dissatisfied with the title is indicated by all the substitutes we hear.

Plumbers and bathroom designers dislike most the term water closet and are thankful that the term is gradually sliding into complete disuse. The guys with that first name don't like "John." All members of the bathroom industry are hoping that some day somebody will come up with a new, a polite and all-encompassing name for the bathroom. The United States still possesses 90 percent of all the bathtubs in the world. Well, enjoy your dip! . . . GIVE AWAY DEPT'

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

AS A PERSON grows older, a change may take place in the arteries to the legs and arms—a definite narrowing of the passage through which the blood flows. An older person has a greater tendency toward spasms of the blood vessels and poor circulation.

A similar condition may also affect younger persons in a form known as Buerger's disease. Here, there is a narrowing of the arteries with clotting, causing a decrease in blood flow to the legs.

One of the first symptoms of decreased circulation is the onset of sudden, cramp-like pains in the calves of the legs after exercise. As the circulation to the legs becomes worse, the person has difficulty feeling sensations in these parts. He may develop ulcers of the legs; their color becomes pale or blue, and gangrene may set in.

A drug known as benzazoline is now being used to treat this type of spasm. Its action is to block the sympathetic nervous system, relieving spasms of the blood vessels and thus increasing the blood flow to the parts where the vessels are narrow.

Up until a short time ago the drug was given only by mouth for this purpose. Recently, it has been used experimentally by injection into an artery in conditions where the arteries are narrow or obstructed.

It has been found that this method produces a greater effect on the circulation and the improvement lasts longer. It also prevents the distressing side effects present when the drug is taken by mouth, such as nausea, vomiting, and flushing.

Many people in the future may be able to thank this drug for saving limbs which would otherwise have to be amputated.

REASSESSMENT —

A big cow, to whom the grass looked greener on the other side of a fork made by two trees, had to be freed with saw and axe yesterday morning near Trappe.

The cow, owned by Harry G. Wismer, got its head caught between the trunks near Wismer's home along Lower Lewis road near the Trappe borough line.

Wismer spread the trunks using the tools. Carl Clemens, Rovers, comes a card signed by Mary and Ford, an employee of Gerges Motor Russell Lightcap, Pottstown R.D. 4 service. Roversford, held the cow's head while it was backed out. This message is on it:

Hunsberger added there are plenty of local men, such as officers of banks and building and loan associations who have the experience for such work. He pointed out pay so much more than others."

The borough now has a full-time assessor.

"I think the survey could be done right when some people have to pay so much more than others."

Mrs. Myron D. Keim, 1225 South street, said:

JOHN DELLAQUILA, 312 West King street, said:

"My assessment is extremely high here. I'm in favor of reassessment and I'm in favor of an outside firm doing the job."

"I think a thorough and equitable assessment would be worth $30,000, especially since the school district will be granted greater appropriations by the State for an increase in assessment."

Dellaquila pointed to the increased borrowing capacity which would result for the borough with a hike in assessment.

He said there are some homes in the borough which are assessed too low and insisted a competent, fair job of reassessing can be done only by an outside firm.

Robert S. Van Horn, 309 North Franklin street, a former borough councilman, said:

"Payment of $30,000 to make a reassessment of Pottstown property is out of the question. Who's going to pay this money? Where's we get it?" This policy of spend and spend, and tax and tax will soon have us milked dry. We can only stand so much taken out of our hides."

"I think a local assessment board, made up of unarmed persons, civic minded enough to give their service free, can do a better job because they know local conditions. Council is killing the goose that laid the golden egg if it saddles taxpayers with another $30,000 debt."
